In my eyes, Ken Kesey is the most non-traditional historical figure; a man drenched in color, experience, and most of all, story. And in the psychedelic summer of 1964, he chose to drive his majestically multicolored school bus across the country in search of spontaneity, kindness in the common stranger, and the pure spirit of living in the moment. This book tells my ever-changing life story through my interpretations and responses to the history of the 1960s Furthur Bus and the 2014, 50th Anniversary Tour. Close your eyes, take a deep breath, and imagine yourself in a magical, mystical, psychedelic bus, traveling across America. The bus bubbles, swerves, and sways in electric waves down the highways. Dreamily, you gaze out of the window and see one million smiling faces exuding from the passing cars. They are waving at you! As you take another deep breath in, you smell daisies, lilies, and lavender from the various Prankster ladies' hair. You stretch yourself out of the bus window and feel the sunlight radiate onto your face, as you stare up into the clear blue sky. You look down occasionally to watch the miles on the road pass... You just want this moment to last, and last! You close your eyes again and hear the laughs and giggles of your Prankster pals. Stories both light-hearted and deep are being shared. A rhythm breaks out and everyone starts singing. The mighty bus rolls on... "Oh ride the bus with me/ Oh feel what it's like to be so free!" - Jess C "Bold as Bus."
